

Keith L. Brown rocked the "Conference" on St. Eustatius with an energetic presentation to educators, parents and students on several topics. He encouraged adults to treat children with love, positive words and motivation. He encouraged youngsters present to share their aspirations. He also spoke to a group of secondary students at Gwendoline van Putten School. Brown's interaction with the youngsters was well received, "as he spoke the language of the students," said Conference coordinator Christina Timber-Glover. The Expertise Centre workshop, a part of the Conference, was held on Thursday with singing of The Wilhelmus and Golden Rock Anthem as the flags were hoisted. Gifted voices sang "Order my steps," a song connected to the Conference theme "Stepping stones to Quality Care in Education." Aloei Historical Dancers also showcased their skills.

The multidisciplinary team of Curaçao's Economic Development Ministry MEO and Tax Accountants Bureau BAB during controls at several mini-markets again encountered illegal lottery sales. A meeting was held with the mostly Chinese storeowners to warn them that repeat offenses could lead to indefinite closures (Extra photo).
